Religious Discourse, Social Cohesion and Conflict: Studying Muslim–Christian Relations
Contents

Foreword xi

INTRODUCTION

From comparison to conversation 1
  1. Outline of an emerging field of study 3
  2. Controversial issues 8
  3. Conceptual and technical design 11

CHAPTER 1

Interreligious relations in the post-Cold War era 15
  1.1 Global resurgence of religion 16
  1.2 Growing conflicts between religions 20
  1.3 The study of interreligious relations thus far 23
      Conclusion 28

CHAPTER 2

Interreligious studies as an interdisciplinary field 29
  2.1 Theology and religious studies 29
  2.2 The analogy model of interreligious relations 32
  2.3 From religious to interreligious studies 34
      Conclusion 38

CHAPTER 3

A narrative theory of interreligious relations 39
  3.1 From phenomenon to narrative 39
  3.2 Postcolonialism and religious studies 43
  3.3 The understanding of religion today 44
      Conclusion 51
CHAPTER 4
Discourse analysis in interreligious studies

4.1 The theory underlying sociocognitive discourse analysis
4.2 Methods of sociocognitive discourse analysis
4.3 Application to interreligious studies

Conclusion

CHAPTER 5
Muslim–Christian relations in Tanzania

5.1 Analysis of linguistic practice
5.2 Analysis of discursive practice
5.3 Analysis of social practice

Conclusion

CHAPTER 6
Muslim–Christian relations in Indonesia

6.1 Analysis of linguistic practice
6.2 Analysis of discursive practice
6.3 Analysis of social practice

Conclusion

CHAPTER 7
Context, comparison and conversation

7.1 Context and comparison
7.2 Translatability of religious concepts
7.3 From comparison to conversation

Conclusion

CHAPTER 8
Religious identity transformation in interaction

8.1 Identity
8.2 Interaction
8.3 Transformation

Conclusion