Learning How to Request in an Instructed Language Learning Context
Contents

Acknowledgements ........................................................................................................... 7

EVA ALCÓN SOLER
Introduction .................................................................................................................... 9

EVA ALCÓN SOLER
Pragmatics in Instructed Language Learning Contexts .............................. 17

MARIA PILAR SAFONT JORDÀ
The Speech Act of Requesting .............................................................................. 41

ESTHER USÓ-JUAN
A Pragmatic-focused Evaluation of Requests and their Modification Devices in Textbook Conversations ......................... 65

MARI CARMEN CAMPOY CUBILLO
Requests in Spoken Corpora: Some Implications for Corpus as Input Source in the Classroom ....................................................... 91

ANA FERNÁNDEZ-GUERRA
Requests in TV Series and in Naturally Occurring Discourse: A Comparison ................................................................................... 111

ELINA VILAR BELTRÁN
The Use of Mitigation in Role-play Activities: A Comparison Between Native and Nonnative Speakers of English ....................... 127

PATRICIA SALAZAR CAMPILLO
Task Analysis on Mitigation in the Speech Act of Requesting: Discourse Completion Task and Role-play ................................. 143
Otilia Martí Arnándiz
Grammatical and Pragmatic Competence in EFL Contexts:
Do they Really Go Hand in Hand? ...................................................163

Alicia Martínez-Flor
The Effect of an Inductive-deductive Teaching Approach to Develop Learners’ Use of Request Modifiers in the EFL
Classroom .........................................................................................191

Víctoria Codina Espurz
The Immediate vs. Delayed Effect of Instruction on Mitigators in Relation to the Learner’s Language Proficiency in English........227

Notes on Contributors.......................................................................257