Foreword——1
Introduction——7

Part One: The Problem of the Levels of Modality——37

I Aporias and Equivocations of Modal Concepts——39
1 Meanings of “Contingency”——39
   a) A Provisional Hierarchy of the Six Modes——39
   b) The Questionable Position of Contingency——41
   c) Equivocations of Contingency——43
   d) The Only Ontically Relevant Meaning. Consequences——45 2 The Meanings of Necessity——46
   a) The Relation of Necessity to its Counter-Modes——46
   b) Equivocations in Linguistic Usage——47
   c) Philosophically Essential Meanings of Being-Necessary——48
   d) Summarization and Supplementation——51 3 Meanings of Possibility——52
   a) Disjunctive and Indifferent Possibility——52
   b) Logical, Ideal, and Gnoseological Possibility——53
   c) The Particular Nature of Real Possibility——56
   d) The Real Aspect of Partial Possibility——57
   e) The Relationality of Possibility and its Essential Boundary——58 4 Meanings of Actuality——60
   a) The Fluctuations of Meaning in Linguistic Usage——60
   b) Logical, Gnoseological, and Essential Actuality——62
   c) The Special Position of Real Actuality——63
   d) Actuality and Nonactuality——65

II The Basic Modal Law——67
5 Toward the Differentiation of the Modes——67
   a) The Appearance of Contingency in Being-Actual——67
   b) The Reflection of the Modes of Being in the Secondary Modes——68
   c) The Dimensions of Opposition of Modal Diversity——70 6 The Opposition of the Fundamental and Relational Modes——72
   a) Conditionality and Unconditionality of the Kind of Being——72
b) The Aporia of Conditionality in Essential Necessity 74

c) The Same Aporia in Essential Possibility 75

7 The Development of the Basic Modal Law 77

a) The Relativity of Relational Modes to Fundamental Modes 77

b) The Proof of “Internal” Relativity 78

c) Implementation and Apparent Difficulties 79

d) Nonactuality as a Fundamental Mode 80

e) The Proof of “External” Relativity 81

f) The Position of Negative Conditions 84

8 Supplement to the Basic Modal Law 86

a) The Third Kind of Relativity in the Relational Modes 86

b) The Historical. The Threefold Modal Law of Aristotle 87

c) The Historical Perspective 89

III General Arrangement of the Modes 91

9 The Position of Contingency Under the Basic Modal Law 91

a) The Abolishment of External Relativity in Contingency 91

b) The Aporia in the Relation of Possibility and Contingency 92

c) The Alternative between Contingency and Relational Modality 93

d) The Maintenance of Internal Relativity in Contingency 94

10 Contingency and the Self-Abolition of Necessity 96

a) The Ontological Principle of Contingency 96

b) Absolutely Necessary and Absolutely Contingent Being 97

c) Contingency as Irregular Mode and Limiting Mode 99

11 The Formal System of Modes 100

a) Modal Indifference and Modal Heterogeneity 100

b) The Dimensional Arrangement of the Regular Modes 102

c) The Insertion of the Irregular Mode 104

d) The Position of Indifferences in the Formal System of Modes 106

Part Two: The Modality of Real Being 109

I The Real Modes and Their Intermodal Laws 111

12 Ontological Modes and Secondary Modes 111

a) The Role of Intermodal Relations 111

b) The Varying Preferential Position of the Modal Types 113

c) Intermodal Inconsistencies of the Traditional Hierarchy 115

d) The Aporetic in Kantian Modal Concepts 117 13 The Real Modes and Modal Consciousness — 119
   a) The Ontological Breakdown of the Traditional Hierarchy — 119
   b) Proof of the Heterogeneity of the Modes of Consciousness and Being — 120
   c) The Modal Oppositions and Modal Hierarchy of the Real — 121
   d) The Division of Real Possibility — 122

14 An Overview of the Intermodal Laws of the Real — 123
   a) The Equivalences of the Relational Modes — 123
   b) The Position of the Fundamental Modes in the Real Sphere — 125
   c) The First Principle of Real Intermodal Relations — 127
   d) The Second Principle and its Corollaries — 128
   e) The Third Principle — 130
   f) Corollaries of the Third Principle — 132

II Formal Proof of the Intermodal Laws of the Real — 135 15 The Law of Division of Real Possibility — 135
   a) The Relation Between the Formal and the Material Proof — 135
   b) The Meaning of the Law of Division and its Insightfulness — 136
   c) The Corollaries of the Law of Division — 137
   d) Actuality and Temporality. The Hardness of the Real — 139

16 Formal Proof of Principles II and III — 141
   a) The Derivation of the Paradoxical Laws of Exclusion — 141
   b) Formal Proof of the Positive Laws of Implication — 144
   c) So as to Ward off a Dangerous Misunderstanding — 145
   d) Formal Proof of the Negative Laws of Implication — 149

17 Formal Proof of Principle I — 151
   a) Abolition of the Second and Third Indifference — 151
   b) The Special Position of the First Indifference in the Real Sphere. Real Possibility and Real Contingency — 153
   c) Abolition of the First Indifference and the Limitation of this Abolition — 154
   d) The Disappearance of “Indifferent Possibility” — 155
   e) The Division of the Modal Table and the “Decidedness” of the Real — 157

III Material Proof of the Intermodal Laws of the Real — 161
18 The Foundation of the Material Proof — 161
   a) Formal and Material Discussion — 161
   b) The Twofold Conflict in the Popular Concept of Possibility — 162
c) The Insufficiency of Partial Possibility and the Totality of Conditions—164
d) The Law of Totality of Real Possibility—166
e) The Law of Totality and the Law of Division—168

19 The Identity of Real Conditions—169
a) “External Relativity” as Real Dependency—169
b) The Coupling of Real Possibility and Real Necessity through the Identity of their Chains of Conditions—171
c) Discussion of an Example. Consequences—173

20 The Real Law of Necessity—175
a) Relation of Real Actuality to the Chain of Conditions—175
b) The Superordination of Real Actuality over Real Necessity—177
c) Real Connection as the Binding of the Modes to One Another—179
d) Resistance of the Consciousness of Actuality to the Real Law of Necessity—180

21 The Real Law of Possibility—181
a) The Ontological Meaning of the Law. Casting Out the Ghosts—181
b) The Mediated Reconnection of Real Actuality to the Conditions of Real Possibility—183
c) Real Possibility and Consciousness of Possibility—185
d) The “Narrowness of the Possible” as a Sign of the Higher Ways of Being—186

22 The Megarian Notion of Possibility—188
a) Aristotle’s Account and Polemic—188
b) The Real Ontological Meaning of the Megarian Thesis—190
c) Right and Wrong on Both Sides of the Argument over the “Possible”—192
d) Diodorus Cronus and his κυριεύων λόγος—194

23 Material Proof for the Remaining Intermodal Laws—196
a) The Negative Laws of Implication—196
b) The Paradoxical Laws of Exclusion—197
c) The Abolition of Indifferences—198

IV The Ontological Law of Determination—201
24 The Real Law of Actuality—201
a) Modality and Determination—201
b) The Internal Inconsistency of Consciousness of Actuality—202
c) The Real Law of Possibility and the Real Law of Necessity—203
d) The Absorption of Both Laws into the Real Law of Actuality 204

25 Real Actuality and Real Determination 208
   a) Skewed and One-Sided Concepts of Determination 208
   b) More Precise Demarcation of the Ontological Problem of Determination 210
   c) The Sufficiency of Real Ground as Completeness of Conditions 212
   d) Toward the Overlapping Relation of the Two Laws 214
   e) The Law of Determination's Ability to be Proven from the Real's Intermodal Lawfulness 216

26 Universal Real Determination and Particular Types of Real Nexuses 218
   a) Real Strata and Types of Real Determination 218
   b) The Mutual Relation of Different Types of Determination 219
   c) The Passage Generally Taken by the Real Nexus through its Particularizations 221
   d) Real Determination and Real Freedom 222
   e) Determination and Determinism 224

27 The Real Mode of Contingency 225
   a) The External Boundary of Real Determination 225
   b) The Antinomy in the Essence of Real Contingency 226
   c) Recurrence of Indifferences and the Abolition of the Paradoxical Intermodal Laws 228

V The Modal Construction of Becoming 231

28 Partial Possibility and Time Relation 231
   a) The Real Modes and Becoming 231
   b) Aporias of Partial Possibility in the Real Process 232
   c) The Temporally Narrowing Circle of the Possible 234

29 Undecidedness and the Puzzle of Decision 235
   a) New Aporias and Theoretical Perplexity 235
   b) Theoretical Experimentation with Chance. New Inconsistencies 238
   c) The Anthropomorphic Concept of Time and Becoming 239

30 Real Conditions and Real Decision 242
   a) The Only Tangible Real Authority of Decision 242
   b) The Progressive Completion of the Chain of Conditions and Continuous “Decision” 243
   c) “Decision” as Being Contained in the Respective Complex of Real Conditions 245
31 Determinative and Modal Construction of Becoming

- a) The Connectedness of the Processes and the Total Process
- b) The “Multiplicity of Possibilities” and Real Possibility
- c) Completeness and Incompleteness of Conditions
- d) The Chain of Conditions and the Respective Complex of Conditions
- e) Real Possibility, Process and Causality

32 The Positive Relation of the Modes in Real Events

- a) The Higher Forms of Determination
- b) The Present as Loaded with the Future
- c) Real Making-Possible and Real Actualization
- d) The Special Role of the Relational Modes in Becoming
- e) The Temporal Precedence of Real Possibility and Real Necessity

VI Fields of Incomplete Reality

- 33 The Modal Construction of the Ought
  - a) The Dissolution of the Overlapping Relation
  - b) Requirement, Constraint, Tendency, Will, and Action
  - c) The Predominance of Necessity in the Actual Ought-to-Be
  - d) Detached Necessity and its Freedom
  - e) The Identical Character of Modal Constructions in the Ought and in Freedom

- 34 The Real Mode of Actualization
  - a) The Making Possible of the Impossible
  - b) The Aporia of Free Necessity
  - c) Two Kinds of Necessity and Two Kinds of Possibility

- 35 The World of the Beautiful and its Modal Structure
  - a) The Predominance of Possibility over Necessity
  - b) The Artistic Object and its Modality
  - c) The Mode of Deactualization and Free Possibility
  - d) Artistic Freedom and Disjunctive Possibility

Part Three: The Modality of the Unreal

- 36 The Particular Nature of the Modes of Judgment
  - a) The Position and Lawfulness of the Logical Forms
  - b) The Table of the Modes of Judgment
c) The Position of Contingency in Judgment 288

d) Relational and Absolute Modes of Judgment 289

e) The Logical Modes as Modes of Predicative Being 290

37 The Intermodal Laws of the Logical Sphere 292

a) Modality of Assertion and Modality of Statement 292

b) Relation of Logical Possibility and Necessity to the Real 294

c) The Laws of Implication of the Positive Modes of Judgment 296

d) The Laws of Implication of the Negative Modes of Judgment 297

e) The Modal Indifference and Laws of Exclusion of Judgment 299

38 Inconsistencies and Indeterminacies 301

a) The Disappearance of the Principle of Sufficient Reason 301

b) Predicative Being as Softened Being 303

c) Aporias of Logical Possibility and Actuality 304

d) The Amphiboly in the Indifference of Logical Possibility 305

39 Toward the Solution of the Aporias 307

a) Internal and External Indifference 307

b) Non-Contradiction, and Indeterminateness 308

c) The Neutrality that Non-Contradiction Bears toward Internal and External Indifference 310

d) The Aporias of Logical Contingency 312

e) Contingency of Judgment and Necessity of Judgment 313

f) The Alogical in the Logical 315

II The Modality of Ideal Being 317

40 The Particular Nature of the Essential Modes 317

a) Predicative and Ideal Being 317

b) Ideal and Real Being. Relatedness and Opposition of their Modality 318

c) The Regression of the Absolute Modes and the Autocracy of the Relational Modes 320

d) Essential Actuality as a Concurrent Modal Factor 322

41 Preliminary Version of the Modality of Essence 323

a) Transfer of the Paradoxical Laws of Implication 323

b) The Scope of Essential Possibility and its Delimitation 324

c) The Meaning of the Overlapping Relation of the Relational Modes in Ideal Being 326

d) The Ranges of Possibility and Necessity. The Law of Consolidation 328

e) The Gradation of the Density of Determinateness in the Logical, Ideal, and Real Sphere 329 42 Aporias of the Essential Modes. Compossibility—331
   a) The Inconsistency of Presuppositions in the Understanding of the Modes—331
   b) Proof of the Law of Division in the Ideal Sphere. Genus and Species—332
   c) The Range of Disjunctive Possibility in the Construction of the Levels of the Essential Realm—334
   d) The Multiradiality of the Possible and the Parallelism of the Incompossible—336
   e) The Ideal Law of Possibility. The Widened Modal Table of Ideal Being—338

43 Metaphysical Problems of Essential Possibility—340
   a) Leibniz’s “Possible Worlds” and the Real Making-Possible of the Actual World—340
   b) Kant’s “100 Possible Thalers”—342
   c) The Confusion of Ontological Terminology—343
   d) Humankind and “Its” Possibilities—344
   e) Mathematical Possibilities—346

44 The Unveiling of Ideal Being—347
   a) The Delimitation of Essential Necessity—347
   b) The False Nimbus of Ideal Being and Essential Contingency—349
   c) The Contingency of Parallel Systems—351
   d) Essential Nonactuality and Incompossibility—352
   e) The Definitive Table of the Essential Modes—354

45 The Intermodal Laws of Ideal Being—356
   a) The Laws of Exclusion of Essential Modality—356
   b) The Laws of Indifference of the Essential Modes—357
   c) The Laws of Implication of the Essential Modes—359
   d) The Incompleteness of Ideal Being—362

III The Modal Problem of Knowledge—365

46 The External and Internal Modality of Knowledge—365
   a) The Real Modes and Real Determination of Knowledge—365
   b) The Modality of the Form of Knowledge and Modal Knowledge—366
   c) The Dissolution of the Real Modal Connection in Comprehension—368

47 Modal Consciousness and Modal Comprehension—369
   a) Direct Intuition and Comprehension—369
b) Aposterioristic Consciousness of Actuality; Aprioristic Comprehension of Possibility and Necessity—371

c) The Modal Detour of Comprehension and the Impact of the Hypothetical—373

d) The Modal Construction of Hypothesis—375

e) The Freedom of Movement in the Comprehension of Possibility and Necessity—376

48 The Law of Knowledge of Actuality—378

a) Modal Cycle of Knowledge—378

b) Comprehension and Real Actuality—380

c) The Rootedness of the Modes of Comprehension in the Modes of the Real—381

49 The Twofold Modal Table of Knowledge—382

a) The Modal Table of Direct Intuition—382

b) The Modal Table of Comprehension—385

c) The Aporia in the Comprehension of Possibility—387

d) The Amphiboly of the Possibility of Knowledge—388

IV The Modes of Knowledge and their Laws—391

50 The Modal Connection of Intuition and Comprehension—391

a) The Combined Modal Table of Knowledge—391

b) The Dynamic Relation between Consciousness of Contingency and Comprehension of Necessity—393

c) The Double Shape of Knowledge of Possibility—395

d) Logical Possibility and Epistemic Possibility—396

e) The Impact of Essential Modality on the Modes of Comprehension—398

51 The Intermodal Laws of Givenness—400

a) Amphibolous and Complex Intermodal Relations—400

b) The Immediate Consciousness of Nonactuality—401

c) The Givenness of Actuality and the Modes of Possibility of Knowledge—403

d) The Givenness of Actuality and the Comprehension of Necessity—404

e) Consciousness of Positive and Negative Possibility—406

52 The Intermodal Laws of Comprehension—408

a) The Comprehension of Possibility—408

b) The Comprehension of Necessity and of Impossibility—410

c) The Essential Knowledge in Comprehension of Real Necessity—412 Part Four: Second-Order Intermodal Relations — 427

I The Modal Relation of the Two Spheres of Being — 429
54 The Problem of Spheres in Light of Modal Analysis — 429
   a) The Distribution of Ontological Weight in the Relation of Spheres — 429
   b) Faulty Transfer of Logical Relations — 430
   c) The Hiddenness of Modes as a Source of Metaphysical Misunderstandings — 432
   d) The Metaphysical Significance of Second-Order Intermodality — 434

55 Possibility and Actuality of the Two Spheres of Being — 435
   a) Essential Actuality and Real Actuality — 435
   b) Essential Nonactuality and Real Nonactuality — 438
   c) Essential Possibility and Real Possibility — 439

56 The Modes of Necessity of the Two Spheres of Being — 440
   a) Compossibility and Real Possibility — 440
   b) Essential Impossibility and Real Impossibility — 441
   c) Essential Necessity and Real Necessity — 443

II The Real Sphere and Knowledge — 447
57 Real Actuality and the Knowledge of It — 447
   a) Indifference of the Real Modes toward Knowledge — 447
   b) Consciousness of Actuality and Real Actuality — 449
   c) Real Nonactuality and Consciousness of Nonactuality — 451

58 The Modes of Possibility Belonging to Reality and Knowledge — 452
   a) Real Possibility and Consciousness of Possibility — 452
   b) The Comprehension of Positive Possibility and Positive Real Possibility — 454
   c) The Comprehension of Negative Possibility and the Real Possibility of Nonbeing — 456
d) Real Impossibility and Comprehension of Impossibility—457

e) On Encountering and Mistaking Real Possibility—458

59 The Modes of Necessity and of Actuality—460

a) Real Necessity and Indirect Comprehension—460

b) True Comprehension of Necessity and of its Conditions—461

c) Real Actuality and the Comprehension of Actuality—463

d) Real Nonactuality and Comprehension of Nonactuality—465

e) Consequences. The System of Two Authorities of Knowledge—467

III The Position of Ideal Being and of the Logical—471

60 The Essential Sphere and Knowledge—471

a) The Proximity of Ideal Being to Consciousness—471

b) Essential Actuality and Intuitive Givenness—472

c) Essential Possibility and Comprehension of Possibility—474

61 The Higher Essential Modes and Comprehension—476

a) Compossibility and Comprehension of Compossibility—476

b) Essential Impossibility and Comprehension of Impossibility—477

c) Essential Necessity and Comprehension of Necessity—479

d) Essential Intuition and Comprehension of Essential Connections—481

62 Intermodal Position of the Logical Sphere—482

a) Indifference of Being toward the Logical Modes—482

b) Apodictic Judgment and Real Necessity—484

c) Apodictic Judgment and Essential Necessity—486

d) Apodictic Judgment and Epistemic Necessity—487
